Lance Jurich, a partner in Loeb & Loeb's Bankruptcy, Restructuring and Creditors' Rights Practice Group in its Los Angeles office, serves as a trusted advisor to many clients. He is a commercial litigator who specializes in business bankruptcies, restructurings and the enforcement of creditors' rights. Lance has broad experience representing financial institutions and handles complex matters for these clients. He also represents fiduciaries, including receivers, assignees for the benefit of creditors, and trustees in all types of forums.

Lance's depth of experience includes bankruptcy and creditors' rights; real estate disputes; Ponzi scheme litigation; preference and fraudulent transfer litigation; partnership disputes; Chapter 11 plan issues; 363 purchases of assets; interest rate disputes; valuation disputes; assignments for the benefit of creditors ("ABC's"); lender liability cases; prejudgment remedies; guarantor litigation; receiverships; and bankruptcy appellate litigation.

Lance's practice covers a broad spectrum of complex insolvency issues for clients in diverse industries, including real estate, entertainment, healthcare, hotel and gaming, agricultural, and oil and gas. He represents domestic and international banks, insurance companies, indenture trustees, hedge funds, private equity groups, distressed debt investors, trade creditors, strategic purchasers of assets in bankruptcies, entertainment companies, real estate developers, receivers/court fiduciaries, hospitals/health care providers, and agricultural lenders and agribusinesses.

EXPERIENCE

Acted as bankruptcy co-counsel to C&J Energy Services Ltd. in a voluntary reorganization under Chapter 11 of the U.S. Bankruptcy Code. C&J, a leading provider of well construction and oilfield services in the U.S. and Canada, filed for Chapter 11 on July 20, 2016 in the U.S. Bankruptcy Court in Houston. The reorganization will implement the previously announced Restructuring Support Agreement that C&J executed with its lenders, substantially deleveraging the company's balance sheet and allowing for the elimination of approximately $1.4 billion in existing debt

Represented a cutting edge video esports platform operator, as debtor, in a high-speed Chapter 11 bankruptcy case. Loeb handled all aspects of the company's reorganization, including negotiating a DIP credit facility and guiding the debtor through confirmation of its plan of reorganization. The plan -- which was confirmed just approximately four months after the bankruptcy filing -- successfully wiped away all of the company's existing equity and recapitalized the company through a re-issuance of new stock to its creditors. Additionally, the plan also facilitated a consolidation with online gaming community Victorious Gaming and granted equity to Fuel Technologies, a global creative agency helping develop the gaming platform.
